

assembled. They have destroyed some property at the plant, but no one is injured. The workers will not attempt to enter the mine until the mob is dispersed. The event was charged last night and is burning. At Hill Farm the men returned, and are being punished by forty lashes. In other parts the situation is unchanged. The number of a H. Paddock has turned public sentiment against the strikers.

MAY CLOSE ON SUNDAY.

Barbers Will Hold a Meeting to Decide the Question. A mass-meeting of journeymen barbers has been called for Sunday evening at Clarendon Hall. The object is to discuss the Sunday-closing question, with a view of obtaining suitable legislation to compel all barbers to keep their shops closed on Sunday.

While the majority of the union is in favor of having shops closed all the Sabbath day, there are many who think that such a law would seriously harm the business of the city. A great number of workers cannot get shaved on Saturday evening. In other parts the situation is unchanged. The number of a H. Paddock has turned public sentiment against the strikers.

HELP FROM HEADQUARTERS.

Brotherhood Carpenters' Executive Board After Delegates. Workmen on many buildings in course of construction were in a state of anxiety this morning over a rumor that they would be ordered to strike. This was notably true at the big buildings at Front and Pine streets, two at Twenty-first street and Fifth avenue, and one at Fifth avenue near Twelfth street. The rumor seems, however, to have had little foundation. The Board of Building Delegates, however, has still at work.

The fight between the Board of Building Delegates and the latter's allies, the steamfitters, painters and elevator-constructors, is being waged with greater bitterness than ever. The recent victories of the Board in getting the Brotherhood carpenters laid off from jobs at the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Insurance Building, Union street and Broadway, and at other large buildings uptown, have aroused the Brotherhood to greater activity. The latter's General Executive Board declares that it will employ its treasury if necessary to fight against the Board of Building Delegates.

Painters Locked Out in Chicago.

(By Associated Press.) CHICAGO, April 5.—Nearly all the painters in Chicago will be idle today. The association of employers yesterday decided to take aggressive measures against the pending strike, and agreed to a general lock-out. Seventy-seven firms signed an agreement to suspend operations for the present.

Texas Miners Strike.

(By Associated Press.) DENISON, Tex., April 5.—Miners at Ishbel, Krebs and Colgate struck last night after a long conference. Col. Thomas Fleming, superintendent of the Colgate mine, has gone to the city, and the miners are employed elsewhere in almost zero to follow.

Building Strike in Indianapolis.

(By Associated Press.) INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 5.—The Carpenters' Council at a meeting last night voted unanimously to go on strike today for higher wages. Twelve hundred union carpenters will lay down their tools. If the fight is prolonged it will affect all other building trades in the city.

Miners Will Return to Work.

(By Associated Press.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 5.—Between seven and eight thousand miners and mine laborers in Clearfield, Centre and Cambria counties, who quit work on Monday and Tuesday, will return to work Friday morning. They failed to bring about a general strike.

Industry's Revival.

(By Associated Press.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 5.—The famous old Lankford mill in Frankford, which have stood idle for fourteen years, resume operations about May 1. About one hundred hands will be employed.

Reading, Pa., April 5.—The carling, spinning and weaving departments of the Arlington Mills started today, and next Monday the weaving department will resume work. The whole mill will then be in operation, giving employment to 100 hands. There will be no reduction in wages.

TROTTER SPOILED BY A BLOW.

A mistake once made by Driver Dan Mace.

Harsh treatment, though it stop short of inflicting physical pain, keeps a nervous horse in a state of misery. On the other hand, it is perfectly true, as a benighted but intelligent stable-keeper once observed to me, "A kind word for a horse is as good sometimes as a feed of oats."

A single blow may be enough to spoil a racer, says Youth's Companion. Daniel Lambert, the famous English horseman, was once spoiled by a single blow. The blow was a very handsome, stylish, intelligent horse, and also extremely sensitive.

SOME MEDIEVAL REMEDIES.

The Strange Prescriptions Found in Old Medical Works.

This doctrine of like helping like was of universal application, and in medical works of the middle ages we meet constantly with such prescriptions as these, says an exchange:

"Take the right eye of a Frog, lay it in a piece of rasset cloth and hang it about the neck; it cures the right eye if it be inflamed or blinded. And, if the left eye be greived, do the like by the left eye of the Frog."

"Again: 'The skin of a Raven's head in good against the cure of the right foot if it be pouty, and the left upon the left foot.'"

"If I would have a man become bold or impudent, let him carry about him the skin of a man's head, and he will be very bold and impudent."

"If you would have a man become avaricious, let him carry about him a piece of gold, and he will be very avaricious."

"If you would have a man become a miser, let him carry about him a piece of silver, and he will be very miserly."

"If you would have a man become a glutton, let him carry about him a piece of food, and he will be very gluttonous."

"If you would have a man become a drunkard, let him carry about him a piece of wine, and he will be very drunkard."

"If you would have a man become a thief, let him carry about him a piece of money, and he will be very thief."

"If you would have a man become a liar, let him carry about him a piece of truth, and he will be very liar."

"If you would have a man become a hypocrite, let him carry about him a piece of honesty, and he will be very hypocrite."

"If you would have a man become a knave, let him carry about him a piece of honesty, and he will be very knave."

"If you would have a man become a fool, let him carry about him a piece of wisdom, and he will be very fool."

"If you would have a man become a madman, let him carry about him a piece of sanity, and he will be very madman."

"If you would have a man become a devil, let him carry about him a piece of goodness, and he will be very devil."

"If you would have a man become a saint, let him carry about him a piece of wickedness, and he will be very saint."
